THE MONONGAHELA CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM

FAYETTE CITY BOY GOES TO HIS DEATH

John Sobek, Aged Seven, Who Is Unable to Swim, Swallowed Up In An Offset of the Monongahela River

THE BODY IS RECOVERED

Lad Is Bathing With His Elder Brother And a Number of Youngsters, And Not Being Cognizant of Danger, Wades Out Beyond His Depth

The river shore of Fayette City was the scene of a tragedy yesterday afternoon when an agonized mother and father waited an hour for the recovery of their 7-year-old son, John Sobek, who, unable to swim, waded out too far and was swallowed up in an offset of the stream.

The little fellow, with his older brother, and a number of other youngsters, stripped themselves of their clothing yesterday shortly after noon and went in swimming near the Fayette City Coal tipple, just opposite the Allenport bathing beach. This section of the river bed is known to be dangerous, and the little fellow, unconscious of his danger, waded out into its depths, lured by the approach of a boat with the waves that follow in its path, along with the other boys, who were able to swim. The older brother was the first to miss the unfortunate victim, and after gaining the shore, ran to his home and told his parents.

The shore was soon the scene of excitement and approximately 200 people gathered, watching the many unsuccessful attempts of a number of divers, come up time and again without the little body. The mother stood with the others watching and emitting agonizing screams, while the father, Mike Sobek, stood nervously at her side. About an hour after the boy had gone under, at 2:30 o'clock, his body was brought to the surface by Walter Bruce, of Fayette City, after a number of unfruitful dives. Strenuous efforts were made to restore life, all of which proved futile.

The body was taken to the mortuary of George W. McCrory, and there prepared for burial. Funeral services will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, from the late home in Nauvoo hollow, located in the borough. Interment will be made in the Fayette City cemetery.

The drowned boy is survived by a number of brothers and sisters, besides his parents.

KU KLUX KLAN AS A POLITICAL ISSUE, DOMINATES THE CONVENTION AT THE FOURTH SESSION TO-DAY

STIRRING SCENES MARK THE BIG GOTHAM NOISE

Madison Square Garden, June 27.—The Ku Klux Klan, as a political issue, completely dominated the Democratic National convention, as delegates gathered for the fourth session of their meeting here today.

While the sub-committee was gathered near the Garden for another attempt to draft a plank on the Klan and on the League of Nations that might be accepted by the convention, it was evidenced that everything now turned upon the question of whether the Klan shall be denounced by name.

The forces of William G. McAdoo are endeavoring to bring about a situation similar to that which developed in 1904 when Alton Parker was nominated. They hoped to continue their fight with the resolution committee against the Klan long enough to force balloting in the convention for the presidential nominee.

Chairman Walsh slammed down his gavel, calling for order at 11:41. The galleries were only partially filled when quiet was obtained and Chairman Walsh introduced Rev. Dwight W. F. Wiley, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of New York, to deliver the invocation.

As the convention got under way, it was noted that George Brennan, Ed Moore and Thomas Taggart and others of the anti-McAdoo forces were not in their seats.

After a few announcements by secretary, the call of the roll of the states for nominations and seconds, was resumed. Minnesota led off in the persons of William J. Quinn of St. Paul, who seconded the nomination of Al Smith.

Quinn got a big hand in mentioning Al Smith's name, and there was whistling, cheers, applause and the inevitable band.

The roll call was resumed.

Mississippi yielded to Ohio. There was an outburst of applause and it was realized the Standard bearer of four years ago was to have been replaced in nomination again.

Newton B. Baker mounted the platform and virtually all of the delegates on the floor rose to their feet and cheered.

From the fact that Mississippi yielded to Ohio, and Senator Harrison of Mississippi was the one of the Cox floor leaders at San Francisco four years ago, it was believed General Harrison had decided to line up for Cox again. Baker's speech was frequently interrupted by handclapping. His first mention of the League of Nations brought a sharp outbreak of handclapping and finally one after

Local Lawyer Entertains At Social Function

The closing meeting of the Men's Social Union held last evening in the Church School room of St. Mary's Episcopal church proved to be the most successful one of the season. Following a short business session, a program of merit and interest was enjoyed by everyone present.

The Crawford orchestra of Allenport was the first on the program, and its renditions of many popular airs were wellapplauded and received. The distinct feature of the program, however, was the talk given by Attorney D. M. McCloskey, on his personal experiences while touring England, France and Germany. He spoke of many interesting incidents—of the American people he met and compared the traits of the English, French and German, speaking very highly of the courtesies shown him by the English and the Germans. His last and final comparison was that of America, concluding with "Be it Ever So Humble There is No Place Like Home."

Mr. McCloskey held the undivided interest of all present, and as John N. O'Neill, president of the organization said, in thanking Mr. McCloskey, that those who failed to be present missed a real treat.

The Bosson brothers then entertained with their quaint little songs, which brought a storm of applause. Their mother, Mrs. A. H. Bosson, played the accompaniment. Guy Michener, local violinist, responded to the applause with an encore. Daniel Harris played his accompaniment. Refreshments were served, and the meeting came to a close with the decision to meet next Wednesday night in the Municipal building to make plans for a picnic.

ANNIVERSARY DAY SUNDAY, JUNE 29

Seventeenth Annual Occasion of the Dedication of the Charleroi Methodist Episcopal Church — Are Marked Yearly

DR. CARTWRIGHT COMING

Pittsburgh Evangelist And Lecturer Will Preach Morning And Evening — Church Has Over 700 Members, And Property Valuation of $50,000

Preparations are being made by the Methodist Episcopal church of Charleroi for Anniversary Day services to be held in the local edifice on Sunday, June 29.

The Methodist Episcopal church was dedicated on the last Sunday in the month of June, 1907, seventeen years ago. The last Sunday in June is marked every year by special services in the Charleroi Methodist Episcopal church.

Bishop Charles W. Smith preached the dedicatory sermon in 1907. At this time the Rev. A. E. Husted was pastor of the local denomination. During the past seven years the Rev. Husted has been pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Brownsville.

The payment of the indebtedness incurred by the building of the edifice was completed while the Rev. G. A. Allison was pastor, about 12 years after the dedication of the edifice. Rev. Allison is now pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of South Fork, Pa.

The parsonage was purchased at the beginning of the present pastorate, nearly five years ago. The original cost of this building, together with improvements, and improvements on the church, constituted an indebtedness that has nearly been provided for.

The property valuation in 1906 was $7500; now it is conservatively estimated at not far from $50,000.

The church membership in 1907 was slightly over 300; now it is over 700.

There have been like increases along other lines of endeavor.

Naturally, the forthcoming Anniversary day brings pleasant anticipations as well as hopeful expectations.

Dr. Charles L. E. Cartwright, evangelist and lecturer, of Pittsburgh, will preach both morning and evening. He will also make addresses at the convening of the Sunday school and the Epworth league.

MAJOR MACLAREN TRYING TO BEAT U. S. PLANES

Calcutta, June 27.—Mayor Stuart MacLaren left Rangoon for Bankok this morning continuing his effort to beat the United States army's planes in the flight around the world.

MacLaren's big amphibian plane is working perfectly again, and he is confident he still has a chance in the race to be the first to girdle the globe in the air.

"The Americans aren't near around the world yet," he said before leaving Rangoon."

COURT UPHOLDS FINE IMPOSED

Judge Charles D. Copeland, of the Westmoreland County courts, dismissed the appeal of T. W. Kisor, erstwhile Monessen dairyman, who had been assessed fine and costs before a Monessen alderman for selling and delivering milk, cream, et cetera, minus a permit issued by the board of heatlh.

Mr. Kisor contended in that as he had applied to the state for an inspection of his herd of cattle that the city could not legally take action against him, but F. L. Gibson, agent for the department of health, insisted that Mr. Kisor take out a permit before he could sell his product within the limits of Monessen. When he refused, his arrest followed, and when he continued, he was again arrested and paid a fine and costs, and took an appeal.

Beekeepers Of County Are Continuing Their Tour In Sections

Beekeepers of Washington county are apparently interested in the effort being made by the Extension Bureau to assist them in checking foul brood, for an unusually large number participated yesterday in the first day's tour, during which apiaries in the vicinity of Washington and at Taylorstown were visited.

N. E. Phillips, extension specialist, gave interesting demonstrations especially at the apiary of Dr. R. W. Wolfe, of Taylorstown.

Apiarist Phillips originally was scheduled to spend two days in the county but County Agent Ellwood H. Fulton announced last night that he had agreed to remain Saturday and on Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock will give a demonstration at the apiary of B. F. Forsythe, 708 Samson street, Monongahela.

Two demonstrations will be given today, the first this morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Joseph Kehn, near Hickory, and the other this afternoon at 1:30 oclock at the Mesta Bros. place at Finleyville. Stops will be made at other apiaries enroute.

BIG TIME AT FAYETTE CITY

A big celebration over the opening of the new road will be held this evening and all day tomorrow at Fayette City.

The feature of the celebration tomorrow will be the speeches at 10 o'clock by the Hon. S. A. Kendall, M. C., Senator Guy W. Brown, and other orators. There will be a free lunch.

Firemen's Bazaar To Begin With Parade On Monday Evening

With the business section of the borough decorated, the Charleroi firemen are practically ready for the opening of their bazaar to be held in the borough all of next week. The parade will be a feature and will take place Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. The business section will be traversed by visiting and local firemen, amplified by the Borough council, and other civic societies. The free act will be given at 9 o'clock. This free act is given each night during the week by Sully, Rodgers and Sully, and comes direct from New York.

Friday afternoon at 1:30, a free act of girls from Turners; at 3 o'clock, there will be a boxing bout between two Monessen boys. At night the free act of Sully, Rodgers and Sully; young men of Turners will give a turning and Indian club act; a boxing stunt between McFeeley and Cutsy. Monstrous display of fireworks.

On Saturday, the free act of Sully, Rodgers and Sully.

The entertainment and booths will be featured at the plot of ground at the Pennsylvania Railroad depot.

LOUTTIT IS CAUGHT AT CANTON, OHIO

William Louttit, 45 years old, of New Eagle, who escaped from the Monongahela lockup on December 28, 1923, where he was being detained following his arrest and connection on a charge of highway robbery, was apprehended yesterday at Canton, O.

Constable John Jordan left for Canton for Louttit. The man was arrested at Axelton by the Monongahela police after he had attacked and robbed Frank Blanchi, a stonemason, of $104.

Louttit was arrested and given a hearing and the money alleged to have been stolen from Blanchi being found on his person, it is said, he was held for court under $500 bail.

The morning following his hearing Loutitt asked permission to use the desk telephone at the police station to call friends to act as his bondsmen. The permission was granted, and the man called the number of a friend. The station was empty at the time and Loutitt, minus hat, coat or shoes, left the building and made his way to Courtney.

MAN IS BURIED UNDER 14 FEET OF COAL SLACK

Leon Didonato, 22 years old, who boarded at 1062 Morgan avenue, Monessen, was buried beneath 14 feet of slack, which he had been ordered to remove from a coal bin at the plant of the Pittsburgh Steel company. The accident and fatality occurred at 6 o'clock last night. Didonato was employed in the boiler house of the company.

The man had some difficulty in removing the slack, which being wet, clung to the side of the bin, and suddenly loosening from his efforts, buried him beneath.

Missed by his fellow workmen, inference was gained that he had met with accident, and his dead body was recovered. It was taken to the Check morgue for preparation for burial.

LOCALS WIN FROM FAYETTE CITY ON LATTER'S GROUNDS

The Washington Avenue Presbyterian team defeated the Fayette City nine last evening on the latter's grounds by the score of 8-3. The fielding of the Charleroi team was brilliant in places when the home team threatened to score. The double plays by Bharndt, Wagner and Lloyd and a putout by Mitchell at the plate on an attempted squeeze late in the game were the features of the winners. Miller and Hanst led in the attack.

IMOGENE GOES BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

New York, June 27.—Imogene Wilson, whose bouts with battling Frank Tinney, raised her from the lowly position of a girl on the chorus to a Follies star, went before the grand jury here today to tell of an alleged felonious assault upon her by the widely known black faced comedian.

Backed by no less person than Flo Ziegfield, himself, the actress said she will tell the same story she already has repeated in court and to the newspapers—many times—how Tinney, attired only in her silk dressing gown and her negro maid's earrings, pummelled her into unconsciousness.

Tinney is held under bail for the alleged attack which took place in an apartment off upper Broadway, which Tinney says is under lease by him and in which Miss Wilson lived.

The Follies girl angrily denies that she is enjoying the publicity which has arisen from the case.

Asked if she still loves Tinney, she said:

"I have nothing to say—not a word."

And she added, when it was suggested her story to the grand jury might be somewhat different from the colorful recital she made to newspapermen after her widely known last battle with the black face cave man, for which she brought Tinney into court.

"I am not in the habit of lying, or telling two different stories."

"MELTING WIRES" GIVEN BY THE PLAINTIFF

New York, June 27.—"Boy will pray that sweetheart is all right and well.

"He feels very lonely.

"Darling, you are all the world to him, may God care for you. Phil."

This and other melting telegrams submitted by the plaintiff in the $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Madeline Never against Philip M. Shaw, wealthy New York broker, were considered as the trial resumed before Justice Ciegerich in supreme court here today.

Shaw admits sending the telegram to the beautiful young actress, former understudy of Marilynn Miller, but denies that he had not told her he was married while paying her ardent suit.

Plants Grow Toward Light Unless Blinded

A house plant grows toward the light, and if the pots are turned about so that the leaves face away from the window, it takes only a day or two for them to screw themselves around once more into nearly their old positions.

If now one looks carefully for the joints where this bending is done, he sees at once that nearly all stalks have two. At the bottom of each leaf stalk, where it joins the twig, there is a spot of soft, bright green tissue, which is one joint. Then, at the other end of the stalk, where it joins the leaf, there is likely to be still another. One sees this easily in the bean. The leaf, as a whole, has one of these joints between leaf stalk and stem. Then each of the three leaflets has one of its own, between itself and the common leaf stalk. So, too, the three leaflets of the clover move, each by itself, by means of suen a joint.

Curiously, however, as has been discovered only lately, these bright green spots are not simply the joints of the leaf; they are also its eyes. It has been found that if the spots are covered with black paper, the plant becomes blind, so that it no longer turns its leaves toward the light. But, if the rest of the leaf and its stalk are covered, and only the joints left exposed, then the leaves turn as usual. Moreover, not only light, but also pin-[illegible] applied at these joints, will cause the leaf to move.—St. Nicholas Magazine.

Carthaginians Taught Romans to Build Roads

The Roman empire was intersected by roads constructed principally between the Second and Fourth centuries after Christ. These highways varied in width from 8 to 15 feet, and were almost universally built in straight lines without regard to grade, probably because the use of beasts of burden as the chief means of transport made the preservation of the level an affair of minor importance. Soldiers, slaves and criminals were employed in the construction of these highways, the durability of which is shown by the fact that, in some cases, they have sustained the traffic of 2,000 years without material injury.

The Roman forum is said to have been the point of convergence of 24 roads, which, with branches, had a total length of 52,904 Roman miles. The Romans are said to have learned the art of road building from the Carthaginians.—Adventure Magazine.

"Grads" Feed Students

A college town in western New York, where nearly everybody goes to the institution, presents some startling incongruities. About a third of the restaurants are run by college graduates, and it is a common thing to see an ad in the papers like, "Eat at Bugs Burgess' restaurant, A. C. Burgess, '16, manager.

On one street is an ice cream parlor whose proprietor has just received his degree of doctor of philosophy. Professors come in and discuss the winter habits of the Basidiospore, while the proprietor stands by in white apron.

Of course no customer can interrupt such a discussion, but must wait until the Ph. D. is through before he orders his nut sundae.—New York Sun and Globe.

Rare Sea Shell

In a specially provided case in the foyer of the American Museum of Natural History, there was exhibited recently for the first time one of the most highly prized cone shaped shells ever found in the world. According to scientific authorities, it is properly called "The Glory of the Sea."

It is about five inches in length, of peculiarly slender appearance, graceful proportions, and has a tapering spire. It suggests an unfolding rosebud. The ground color is pale ivory, overlaid with a mosaic of thousands of triangular figures ranging from an eighth of an inch to almost microscopical size. These triangles are outlined in chrome yellow or deep chestnut brown.

A Sure Sign

An old darky who made his living, as he said, "by takin' in whitewashin', floor cleanin' and perticular jobs," met one of his white customers shortly after the first of the year.

"How are you this morning, Uncle Dave?" asked the white man.

"Well, sah, I'm des dat good dat I'm gwine to live for anuder year," was the reply.

"How can you be certain of that?"

"Hits dis 'er way, I allurs notices dat when I lives twel New Year's I allus lives anuder year," was the triumphant response.—Judge.

Innocent and Guilty

"Did you tell the sheriff he might shoot at a fleeing robber?"

"Yep," replied Cactus Joe. "The city council decided that he could shoot so's to scare him, bein' careful at the same time not to hit him."

"That's a humane idea."

"But it ain't workin' out. In a crowded street the robber's the only one that's perfectly safe."—Washington Evening Star.

BIRTHPLACE OF YANKEE DOODLE GIVEN TO STATE OF NEW YORK

Photo of old Fort Cralo, on Riverside avenue, at Rensselaer, New York, taken just before the fort was formally given to the State of [illegible] Strong, of Philadelphia, who was born there. "Yankee Doodle," later adopted by the American soldiers as their own battle and marching tune, was composed and sung in derision of the Yankee troops as they rode into the cantonment of Fort Cralo in 1758 to join Abercrombie's army on its march to Ticonderoga. Mrs. Strong turned over the deed to the place, which had been in her family for 300 years, to the state at exercises in conjunction with the Tercentenary celebration of Albany.

AN EPOCHAL MEMORIAL.

A "bloody shirt" campaign is now so remote in both time and sentiment that probably a large proportion of the youth of America would need to have the term explained. Not only would it be useless in the campaign of 1924 to seek to win votes on the ancient issues of the War for Secession but now no heed would be given even to a protest against the coining of silver half dollars by the Treasury for the Stone Mountain Confederate Association, under the direction of which Gutzon Borglum, the Utah sculptor, is carving in relief on the smooth perpendicular face of Stone Mountain a Confederate army going forth to battle under the leadership of the great soldier, Robert E. Lee. No longer ago than the middle eighteen-nineties the memorial itself would have caused wide protest in the Northern states, let alone the passage of a bill by congress to authorize the Treasury to coin money in connection with the same memorial of American heroism and valor.

The change of feeling began in earnest when in 1898 North and South fought together in the Spanish-American war, and was made complete and final when, in the World War, Pershing selected the Twenty-seventh division, with its sons of the North, and the Thirtieth, with its sons of the South, to break through the Hindenburg line. After that the war between North and South definitely passed into history to take its place among the world's dead issues, leaving little more behind it than was left generations after the Wars of the Roses which had rent England itself asunder. Such are the achievements of time, developing commerce and increasing identity of interests.

There are many wild horses on the island of Iceland. Formerly they were shipped to England for use in the mines, but that market is closing since mining machinery was adopted.

Fortune in Waste Paper

If the waste paper now burned were collected and reworked, 500,000 acres of forest land could be saved and the paper would be worth $50,000,000 a year to the paper mills.

"De ducks got 'bout all dat cotton, sah," was the mournful reply.

"What do you mean, the ducks got it?"

"Well, you see," explained the old man, "I sent dat cotton up to Memphis and dey deducts the freight, an' dey deducts the storage charges, an' dey deducts the commission, an' dey deducts the taxes—yes sah, de ducks got 'bout all dat cotton, an' dat's why I'm here."

Health Scholarship Winners Urge Tooth Brush Drill For Pupils

When Alice went down the rabbit hole on her way to Wonderland you will recall that she tasted of the little bottle labeled "Drink Me" and then to her dismay she began to shrink and shrink and shrink. Perhaps these two young ladies shown above are two adventuring Alices, for the toothbrushes are evidently too large for them. What do you suppose really happened?

A toothbrush can't grow. Even if the Duchess commanded it, the most obliging toothbrush would be at a loss what to do. Even if the Duchess lost her well-known temper and cried "Off with their heads" the toothbrushes would have to submit helplessly. But wait! Perhaps there is a chance for them! A reprieve!

A toothbrush is a pretty important part of anyone's equipment. That's what the teachers in the public schools have been trying to impress on a great many, who have been rather disposed to consider toothbrushes as, at most, a nuisance.

It is quite possible someone may have taken it into his head to make a couple of toothbrushes grow very large so as to emphasize the importance of clean teeth.

These are two such unusual brushes, grown large at the command of the Duchess of Health. They made their appearance on the Pacific coast where apples and trees and things often grow very large. People out there are often inclined to look at things in a large way and this is the result.

As a matter of fact these two Alices are pupils of Miss Dora Savage, a teacher at San Francisco, who won a $500 health teaching scholarship in the contest conducted this year by the American Child Health Association. The $25,000, needed for fifty such scholarships awarded to elementary school teachers in fifty cities, was furnished by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in order to promote good health teaching and thus improve the health of the children of to-day and the grown-ups of to-morrows.

During the year the toothbrush has grown larger and larger in the minds of children everywhere in America as a result of this contest and clean teeth is but one of the Rules of the Game of Health which Miss Savage and the other teachers have emphasized.

In a series of studies made by the United States Department of Agriculture, it has been ascertained that it takes about six pounds of grain and six pounds of hay to produce one pound of beef. About five and a half pounds of corn will produce a pound of live pork.

Book Has 108 Volumes.

The Bkahgvur, the sacred book of the Tibetan lamas, is one of the longest books on record. It is contained in 108 volumes. The Chinese and the Britannica encyclopedia are the next longest probably, though they are hardly books in the strict sense.

A Young Wag.

Father was explaining a not unusual winter sight. "You see, my son, the water in the river is so much warmer than the air that the vapor rises from it." "I guess," said Johnny, "I'd be warm, too, if I'd run as far as that river has."—Boston Transcript.

Very Likely.

All that restrains millions from going to the South Sea Islands may be that they don't care much for a garland of flowers around their necks and a diet of coconuts.

Protecting Orchards.

The most efficient and economical method of protecting orchards and tender vegetation against frost is to heat the lower layers of the air by burning some sort of cheap fuel.

They May Be.

Those who have reached a point where they don't expect to get rich may be serene judges of the world's affairs.

Illiteracy in China.

It is reported that 90 per cent of China's population have no voice in its affairs because they cannot read or write.

Macaws' Strong Bills.

Macaws, a kind of parrot, native to South America, can break with their beaks nuts which resist attacks with a hammer.

Quite So.

In Society's Realm

Announcements were received in Charleroi today stating the marriage of Ernest Miller, watchmaker at the jewelry store of John B. Schafer, McKean avenue, and Miss Emma Lohr, which took place at Springs, Pa., Wednesday, June 25.

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 22 will hold its regular meeting this evening in the Dugout. A large attendance is especially urged because among the important matters to come up, will be the election of delegates to the State convention to be held at Greensburg in August.

A large number of members of the Crozier club of St. Mary's Episcopal church have signified their intentions to attend the entertainment to be given by the members of the Young Peoples Episcopal League of the Trinity church, Monessen. The affair will be held this evening in the church room, corner of Seventh and Schoonmaker avenue, and the Charleroi people attending will board the 7:30 car leaving here.

At the First Presbyterian parsonage with Rev. R. J. Shields officiating the marriage of Miss Mary Belle Davies and Jesse Smith both of Fayette City, took place Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The ring ceremony of the church was used and the couple were unattended. The bride wore a dress of blue satin. The young couple are wellknown in Fayette city, the groom being employed in the Allenport Steel mill. They will reside in Fayette City.

With Rev. Milton Allison of the First Presbyterian church, Wellsburg, W. Va., officiating, the marriage ceremony of Miss Catherine McNeil of Belle Vernon and Albert Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright of Knox avenue, Monessen, was performed Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. The bride is a prominent Belle Vernon girl, while the groom is wellknown in Monessen, where he is employed as machinist in the Monessen Foundry. The young couple will make their home with the groom's parents.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOY SCOUTS

Tonight at 7 o'clock there will be a special meeting of the American Legion Troop No. 7, Boy Scouts, in the Dugout.

Quick Work

There is a story told about a certain well-known Scotland Yard detective. A colleague from the country came to see him, and happened to speak slightingly of the alleged smartness of the London pickpocket. Whereupon the Yard man offered to bet the other £10 that he would lose his watch without knowing it before he got to Charing Cross, a matter of a few hundred yards. The country colleague agreed and started out; the London man called to him a pickpocket well-known to the police, and said, pointing to the countryman: "You see that chap? I want you to get me his watch. I'll give you £5 and see that you don't get into trouble." "Is it straight?" asked the man. "Sure," said the detective; "you know me." "Oh, well," said the man, "if it's straight—here it is!"

Rickshaw Is Substitute for Taxicab in Durban

Durban is a pleasant town, much frequented in summer by pleasure seekers from Johannesburg, says G B. Mackenzie in the World Traveler Magazine. The principal streets are clean and wide. They were planned when twelve or sixteen oxen were everywhere used for transport and the streets had to be wide enough to allow of the teams turning around.

Now, of course, there are excellent electric cars and private motors may be hired for journeys out of the town, but taxicabs, as we know them, hardly exist. Their place is taken by rickshaws, drawn by Zulus—men of magnificent physique, gayly decorated with feathers, colored cloth, bracelets, beads and horns.

They run barefoot and often have part of their legs whitewashed so that they appear to be wearing stockings. I was told, however, that the lives of these men in the town is often tragically short They take little care of themselves and after running for miles in the blazing sun will sit down in the shade to cool, when they easily catch a chill that may prove fatal.

Riding in a rickshaw provides a pleasant, wavy sensation, and gives one a satisfying feeling of superiority unknown to the owner of a paltry limousine.

Britain Has Smallest Cathedral in the World

The smallest cathedral in Great Britain, and possibly the smallest in the world, is the cathedral of the diocese of Argyle and the Isles, situated on an island in the Firth of Clyde. It provides accommodation for only 100 worshipers.

St. Asaph cathedral, too, is notably small, but in the commanding beauty of its site it yields to none of the greater cathedrals, except, perhaps, that of Durham.

In the middle of the vale of Clwyd, which stretches from Ruthin to Dhyl, stands a ridge forming a kind of backbone to the valley, washed on the east by the River Clwyd and on the west by the River Elwy. On this ridge is perched St. Asaph cathedral.—London Tit-Bits.

Light on the Subject

Five electric signs on Broadway in New York make use of nearly 36,000 incandescent lamps, or more electric lamps than were used in the entire United States in 1881, two years after Edison brought out his first incandescent lamp. Three of these five premier signs which help to spread the fame of Broadway are theatrical announcements The fourth is an automobile tire advertisement The fifth and largest of all is a chewing gum sign, in the operation of which 19,000 lamps are used. It is abundant testimony to the progress of the electrical industry that the 36,000 lamps in Broadway's five greatest electric signs consume but 890 kilowatts of current, or only one-quarter of that required for the lamps burned in the United States in 1881. Moreover, the volume of light which they give is twice as great.

Wined Out of His Mine

Dick Wick Hall in the Salome (Ariz) Sun says: Saleratus Bill Withers has just got back from New York where he went to sell his mine. Bill says when they saw his rich ore they wined him and dined him and wimmined him and signed him up on some dotted lines so fast and artistically that he don't remember yet just what he ate or drank or whether he is married or sold his mine or not, so he's just waiting and wondering who got beat—but he says he don't care much so long as he is back here again with the other burros because New York is a hell of a place for a white man to have to try to live and no wonder most of them is crazy back there.

Three Bulls

"William Butler Yeats, the Irish poet who has received the Nobel prize," said a publisher, "is a collector of Irish bulls

"One of his bulls concerns a politician who warned his audience.

'I warn you, friends, that my remarks will be pointed to the verge of bluntness.'

'Another bull concerns a priest who said sadly in a sermon:

"This is a wretched world We never strew flowers on a man's grave till after he's dead'

"And a third bull concerns a Belfast parson who prayed

"'We thank Thee for this spark of grace; water it, Lord!'"

Prepared

An Irishman who was signing articles on board a ship began to write his name with his right hand, then, changing the pen to his left hand, finished it.

"So you can write with either hand, Pat," said the officer.

"Yis, sor," replied Pat. "When I was a boy me father (rist his soul) always said to me. 'Pat, learn to cut yer finger nails wid yer left hand, for some day you might lose your right!'"

A Sad Ending

"I hope that's a nice book for you to read, darling," said a conscientious mother to her engrossed schoolgirl daughter.

"Oh, yes, mummy," said Miss Thirteen. "It's a lovely book, but I don't think you would like it. It's so sad at the end."

"How is it sad, darling?"

"Well, she dies, and he has to go back to his wife."

Many Kinds of Insects

It is computed that there are five times as many different kinds of insects as there are species of all other living things put together. Seventy years ago, the number of species of insects preserved in collections was about 170,000. Today it is estimated that there are 750,000 sorts, and that without counting the parasitic creatures. In Europe alone there are 350,000 species. Most insects live on trees or plants. There are known to be 450 sorts which make their home in oak trees, and about 200 in the pine. Of beetles alone the varieties exceed 190,000.

Banana Is Odd Plant

To most of us the banana is the golden yellow fruit seen in great bunches on the fruit stalls. To the botanist it is the product of what is perhaps the most widely known plant without a stem of wood—an interesting member of a useful and widespread family. To the expert in food economics it is a fruit of profuse growth excelling even wheat in food production to the acre. The history of the banana as an article of daily diet goes back into remote centuries in the civilization of the eastern hemisphere.—Nature Magazine

Cleopatra Not a Vamp; Was Model Housewife

Egyptian women's costumes in the days of King Tut-Ankh-Amen actually resembled "ill-fitting nightgowns" more than anything else, and their famous "vamps" were nothing more than model housewives, Arthur Weigall, formerly inspector general of Egyptian antiquities, told an audience in Minneapolis the other day, says the Minneapolis Journal.

Weigall was with Howard Carter on the expedition which discovered the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, and told of the discoveries as he saw them.

He verbally painted the early Egyptians as a "fascinating and picturesque people, a young people filled with the joy of living.

"There never was a more mistaken idea than that Cleopatra was a vamp," Weigall said. "She was just a little bit of a soul, and in this day would be considered too domestic. She thought she was married to Julius Caesar, and later on she also thought she was the wife of Mark Antony. But she learned eventually, that she was the wife of neither, and from the most reliable sources we learn she was terribly shocked at the duplicity of these two men.

"I insist she was a model housewife because she had a family of six children and was devoted to them.

"As for the kind of costumes that are called 'King Tut' today, they were unknown at that time. Women's costumes then were positively hideous. Women today would not wear them, and, if they did, would probably land in jail."

Evidence of Prehistoric People Found in Desert

It was last fall that "The Vast Unknown," a region of mystery in Utah, was explored for the first time by an expedition of the National Geographic society in charge of Neil M. Judd of the department of American anthropology of the National museum. Mr. Judd and his assistants spent two months in complete isolation in this unknown section of Utah. During that time they did not see a single wild animal and the only traces of human beings were remains of prehistoric Indians.

Through signs placed on the rocks thousands of years ago by ancient Indians, Mr. Judd was enabled to find trails over many difficult places. A number of habitations of prehistoric people were found in canyons.

The present Indians have a horror of the locality and tell many strange tales about it. It is a country of rare beauty to those who appreciate desert scenery. Mr. Judd describes the sandstone as varying in color from a light yellow to a blood red, and the shadows in the canyon range from hazy blue to deep purple, with occasional patches of green marking the rare vegetation. —Detroit News.

Reassuring "Miss Jones"

As they boarded the train they had every look of being a bridal couple. The young man carefully escorted the young woman to a seat, while the interested passengers smiled indulgently.

Then, extending his hand to the supposed bride, he said, in a very loud voice, "Well, Miss Jones, the train is about to pull out, I wish you a very pleasant journey," and, doffing his hat, he hurried off the train.

But the young woman seemed nervous. By and by she called the porter, and in a whisper gave him some mysterious message. He came back in a moment and said in a voice audible to every one: "Yo' all right, ma'am. He's in de smokin' compartment."—Harper's Magazine.

Not a Crime, a Miracle

It was very cold, but still the angler sat patiently by the side of the stream, waiting for the bite that did not come.

An aged man approached and took up a strategic position behind him. "Are these private waters, my man?" asked the angler, looking over his shoulder.

The aged man shook his head.

"No," he said.

"Then it won't be a crime if I land a fish?" pursued the sportsman.

Again the aged man shook his head, till his gray locks fluttered in the breeze.

"No," he said. "It would be a miracle!"

Force of Habit

A minister, as an illustration of extreme embarrassment, tells of a strapping big fellow who brought his demure young fiancee to the church parsonage for matrimonial purposes.

"According to my usual custom," says the minister, "I turned to the bridegroom at a certain point in the ceremony and said, 'John, this is your lawfully wedded wife.'

"In the excitement of the occasion John turned awkwardly in the direction of his newly acquired life-mate and stammered, 'I'm pleased to meet you.'"

That's Different

It is, of course, presumptuous to seek to run other people's business, but what if they ruthlessly run their business over your affairs?

Origin of Lloyds

Lloyds, an association of marine underwriters, received its name from a coffee house kept in the Seventeenth century by Edward Lloyd.

Forecast of the Air

The weather bureau furnishes the air mail with special forecasts of weather at four levels. The surface, 1,000, 2,500 and 5,000 feet.

Honesty

"We can't all be smart," said Uncle Eben, "but we kin all be honest. 'Tain' no disgrace to be a low-brow if you has a level head."

A Forest Country

Forests cover a third of the entire area of Czechoslovakia and half of the forest area is made up of coniferous trees.

Art of Cookery

Art of cookery lies almost entirely in detecting a bad flavor and rejecting it. Mere mechanical talent shouldn't essay it.

Nemolastik Self-Reducing

Health-Way Rubber Girdle

This new all-rubber girdle is made from an exclusive rubber fabric, manufactured by the makers of Nemo Corsets. A fabric composed of pure gum-rubber, coated on both sides with a fine grade of Italian Silk, which won't rip, tear or lose its shape; which may be easily washed with pure soap and water; which has no disagreeable odor to offend; and which gives constant massage thereby reducing excess flesh.

The Nemolastik Self-Reducing Girdle not only reduces, but produces a youthful, supple figure without any discomfort. And it continues to fit because it is adjustable to the decreasing size in the figure.

It has a closed back, made in a delightful shade of peach with four garters—in a size range to suit all figures Priced at another the delegates with the exception of Wisconsin, rose to their seats waved flags and applauded.

KU KLUX KLAN AS POLITICAL ISSUE

Baker denounced the Klan and brought a number of delegates to their feet, but not anything like the tenacious outbreak of two days ago when the Klan was named for the first time for the convention.

Eugene C. O'Sullivan of Omaha was recognized when call of roll of states reached Nebraska. O'Sullivan put in nomination Governor Charles Bryan of Nebraska, brother of William J. Bryan.

The Nebraska delegation started to parade around the hall, the standards of Georgia, Oregon and Montana trailed behind.

The band played but there was nothing in the way of a demonstration.

Nevada passed and when New Hampshire was called the name of Clyde Keefe was recognized. He [illegible] for nomination. New Hampshire paraded around the hall along while othere delegates cheered. While nomination speeches were in progress the soldier and sailor committee of New York issued a statement boosting Senator Royal S Copeland of New York as the logical man to break the deadlock

Madison Square Garden, N. Y., June 27.—W. G McAdoo and Gov. Al Smith have had their days and some half dozen other candidates were waiting at the post for the getaway gun this morning as the fourth session of the Democratic national convention began.

By the first test vote cast late yesterday on the question of adjournment the anti-McAdoo forces showed that they were sufficiently cohesive to beat McAdoo out of a two-thirds majority for the nomination if that is their prime objective.

By a similar token the great demonstrations for Smith, staged at intervals through the long session yesterday, the most the New York executive can hope for is the vote of some 15 states and territories, totaling 424 votes, far short of enough to nominate. That was the aggregate that by the longest stretch of the imagination could be regarded as participating in the unprecedented demonstration accorded Smith on the floor as 39 states, with 674 votes, sat silent, watching the show.

As a result the different delegation leaders this morning were considering the future on the basis that McAdoo was eliminated, that only a stampede could nominate Smith and that the party leader must be selected from outside the list of those most discussed as strong possibilities. John W. Davis, according to those measuring the advisability of candidates would not be able to withstand the attacks of William J Bryan; Senator Underwood, they say, is not to be seriously considered and for the moment, the list of potential "dark horses" has dwindled, on the eve of the balloting, to the following:

Senator Thomas Walsh, Newton D. Baker, Samuel M. Ralston.

But in the background stands James M Cox, of Ohio, the Standard bearer of four years ago. Cox made a gallant fight in that campaign against the devastating odds of a situation in which the dominant issue was desire for a change, and in which for one reason or another, he could not command the financial support of the mainstays of the party.

Many of the delegates who attended the 1920 convention at San Francisco which nominated Cox, believe he should be given another chance—a real try, under more favorable circumstances

THIEVES STEAL COACH AND TIRES; TOTAL LOSS $1310

Sometime during the early hours of this morning, the Oneida garage, located at 176 East Donner avenue, Monessen, owned by Robert McKelvie, was entered by thieves, who escaped with an Essex coach, valued at $1060 and a number of tires totaling $250. The theft was discovered at 7:30 o'clock, when Mr. McKelvie opened the garage preparatory for the day's business activities. He found the rear door wide open, a car parked just outside the entrance and a number of tires stacked near the door. Entrance was gained through a rear window and the rear entrance to the garage was used to remove the car and tires.

The thieves had evidently began operating after 1 o'clock, the hour Mr. [illegible] visited the garage. They were very deliberate about their activities, as they were forced to remove several cars before they could secure the one in which they made their getaway. It is the opinion of those investigating that the robbers were frightened away near the conclusion of their work, for the pile of tires had evidently been placed near the door ready to be hauled away and before the thieves could load them in the machine, they were obliged to escape with the select large-sized tires, they had already chosen.

The Essex was a new demonstrator, the property of Mr McKelvie. It has red wheels and bears the dealer's license number of 13021.

ONE KILLED, ONE INJURED, IN A STILL EXPLOSION

Warren, Pa., June 27—Melvin Evans, 40, an employe of the United Refinery plant, at Glade Run, was killed today when a still exploded. W. W. Jamison, another employe, was seriously burned

Fire broke out immediately and the fire department from Warren was called in an effort to save the refinery, which covers 20 acres.

COMMITTEE AND ITS TROUBLES WITH PLANKS

United Press Headquarters, Waldorff Hotel New York, June 27—The resolutions committee of the Democratic convention today swung into its third day of labor in an attempt to draft planks concerning the Klu Klux Klan and the League of Nations.

So bitter has the Klan situation become that leaders desire to avert a fight on this issue on the floor of the convention at all costs.

Dragging of the Klan debate to the floor, it is recognized, might split the party wide open.

Advocates of a strong endorsement of entrance into League of Nations are equally insistent with Anti Klan leaders that such a league plank be adopted.

Propagation of Pearls

After keeping oysters with pearls in their shells immersed in a solution of lime for a number of weeks, a Japanese scientist, reported he found that many smaller pearls had formed.

Storm Clouds

The weather bureau says that the distance at which storm clouds are visible to the naked eye varies greatly with one's position and the kind of clouds. If a person is in an open, flat country, and the clouds are of the broad stratus or layer type, he may not see them more than 30 or 40 miles away, and even not half as far if the air tends to be misty or hazy. On the other hand, when the air is quite clear a well-developed cumulo nimbus, or thunderstorm, cloud may, in favorable circumstances, be seen when more than 100 miles away

Corners Not Desirable

Contrary to the commercial opinion in the United States street corners are not always the most sought after for shops and stores in European cities. One of the reasons is that intersecting streets are not always continuous on both sides of the thoroughfares and also because busses or street cars often stop in the middle of the block or at certain stations instead of at every corner as is a custom in America.

Passing Buck to Dad

Those who are still worried about the younger generation should attend to the following story, which I assure them is literally true. Not long ago an undergraduate told me that he personally did not like to drink, and did not drink except when home on vacations. "Even there," he said, "I do not really want to drink. But what shall I do? I can't bear to hurt father's feelings."—Scribner's Magazine.

Making Herself Clear

An Indian paper furnishes us with a recent specimen of "English as she is wrote." It is copy of a letter sent by a woman teacher to the director of education, Manila, and reads "Dear sir, I have the honor to resignate as my works are many and my salary are few. Besides which my supervising teacher makes many loving to me to which I only reply, 'Oh not, Oh not!'—Very respectfully, Josefina"

Curious Boulder

A tremendous boulder, weighing some 17 tons and perched upon a flat rock, apparently so nicely balanced that a glance at it almost convinces a person that but little force is needed to throw it over, is to be seen in the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts, not far from Pittsfield It is called the "Balance Rock," but, despite its name and appearance, is firmly fixed and makes no movement whatever.

Egg as a Symbol

From the very earliest times, long before the Christian era, the egg was regarded as a symbol of rebirth and immortality. The Druids of ancient Britain considered the serpent's egg to be sacred and therefore adopted it as a symbol of mystery and occult knowledge. The Greeks, Persians and Egyptians also looked upon the egg as a symbol of hope and resurrection.
